Villaggio Names Lynda Loe as Property Manager

Bossier City, LA – July 16, 2007 – Good Development Company, Ltd., developers of the recently announced Villaggio project in Bossier City, has named Lynda Loe as Property Manager.

A native of Bossier City, Loe brings over 18 years in the hotel/apartment management industry to the project. Loe returns to Bossier City after seven years of hotel management in Dallas, Texas. In her capacity as Property Manager, Loe will oversee leasing, management, sales, revenue and operations for the apartments, townhomes and office districts within the development.

“We are extremely lucky to have a Bossier native with her background and experience part of the Villaggio management team”, stated Good Company developer John Good, Jr.

Villaggio is a 64 acre mixed-use community located on Highway 80 and I-20. The Tuscan inspired village will offer residents, visitors, business executives and townhome owners their own private and safe community complete with café’s, full service restaurants, upscale apartments, office districts, townhomes and specialty retail situated around a six acres lake and the projects 45 foot clock tower. Villaggio is scheduled to open Fall, 2008. Good Development Company, Ltd., led by Principal John Good, Jr., is a real estate development company engaged in development, management, leasing and construction of mixed-use retail, residential lifestyle communities and shopping centers. Good Company signature developments include Stonebridge – an upscale 330 acre community and Louisiana Boardwalk – an outlet/entertainment retail center located on the banks of the Red River in Bossier City.
